Renovation to Re-launch

04 April 2011

Have you ever set out to improve something, only to find you can't stop? Victoria Cruises has.

The Yangtze River cruise specialist initially planned to renovate its older vessels, Victoria Queen and Victoria Star, only to decide that a full overhaul was necessary.

Several decks were gutted and rebuilt from scratch, while lobbies and hallways have been renovated, new carpet laid throughout and staterooms enhanced with new curtains, and in some cases, new furniture.

The changes are so dramatic that the company decided to re-launch the ships as Victoria Lianna and Victoria Selina respectively.

"Essentially, the Victoria Lianna and Victoria Selina will have the appearance of entirely new ships with little or no resemblance to their previous incarnations," said James Pi, chairman of Victoria Cruises.
